

Hi!

At the very core, I am a creative entrepreneur who is able to generate unique concepts and ideas, and assertively communicate them through images: I am energized by continually taking on challenges, asking the question, and creating a framework for, "What if"...

What if we took a different approach ... what if we could do better ... what if there were no boundaries....

I am resourceful by nature, always tapping into my ingenuity to identify the root of a problem, and looking for new approaches to creatively solve everything that comes my way.

I have an excellent command of the essential fundamentals of traditional and digital graphic design to apply to all sorts of projects and achieve any business goals.

Aspiring to be at the digital forefront, I am constantly updating my knowledge of trends and new technologies, to provide innovative new solutions and enhance my design capabilities. I am stimulated by exploring, testing, and inevitably learning as a result.

My abilities to observe and actively listen are skills that I have developed in order to provide excellent service to my coworkers and clients while creating consensus amongst my teammates so that the collaboration is optimal.

Negotiating is part of my DNA when it comes to planning, budgeting, and delivering projects ensuring all parties get what they need.

Tangibly speaking, most recently, I have been embracing a digital nomad lifestyle while working on my own projects and enterprises.

So now these have been set in motion, I am looking for new opportunities to collaborate with young or established brands and agencies and to keep learning and being actively active in the industry.
